Sheriff's Letter of Thanks.

"S. M. Barlow, Chief of Police, City: Dear Sir:—I desire at this time to sincerely thank you for the prompt and efficient manner in which your department responded to my request last night for assistance. I feel that Salt Lake county should feel grateful for the promptness and courtesies extended to me last night through Lieut. Hempel. If at any time in the future such a condition might arise with the police department, when minutes count, the sheriff's office of the county will be at your disposal. Very respectfully yours.

"JOSEPH C. SHARP,
"Sheriff of Salt Lake County, Utah."

Police Chief's Reply.

"Sheriff of Salt Lake County, Technique of Pythins combined, the funeral of W. P. Cooper was held Wednesday afternoon in the Elks lodge room. The large auditorium was erowded to its utmost capacity, and the gathering was representative of the city's best interests, showing how wide was the circle of friendships and how great the personal in black bronactoth, and the stand was completely covered with benutiful floral tributes.

The services were opened with the singing of the tenor solo, "Face to Face." by Will Sibley, accompanied by H. A. Leipseiger on the piano. The Elks ritual was then conducted by Exalted Ruler Collins and other officers at their respective stations.

Reverend E. I. Goshen followed with Sheriff's Letter of Thanks.

Police Chief's Reply.

"Mr. Joseph C. Sharp, Sheriff, Salt Lake County, City: Dear Sir:—I am in receipt of your favor of even date, expressing your thanks for the prompt manner in which we responded to your call last evening. I can assure you that it is always a pleasure to extend such courtesies. At any time this department can be of service to you, all that is necessary on your part is to command us to the command us to part is to command us respectfully yours, 'S. M. BARDOS.'

Sheriff Sharp, in the foregoing letter to Chief of Police Barlow Wednesday morning, warmly thanked the police department for its aid in protecting John Hays and Harry Thorne, self-con fessed murderers of George W. Fassell, fessed murderers of George W. Fassell, confined in the county jail awaiting trial, and Lucian E. Driskell, convicted murderer of Night Watchman C. C. Riley, from threatened mob violence, and for help in transferring them to the state prison for safe keeping.

The three prisoners still are at the penitentiary, where they will be kept. Driskell until sentence is passed upon him and Hays and Thorne until their trials are called. Since their removal to the penitentiary no more rumors of mob violence have been heard upon the

Advices from Boise, Ida., are to the effect that the authorities there have recognized the photographs in The Tribune of Hays, Thorne and Walter "Curly" Morgan, the escaped accomplice in the Fassell murder, as likenesses of members of a gang of chicken thieves operating in that neighborhood for the past few months. The purported identification by the Idaho authorities of "Curly" as Charles Rice is erroneous, however, and it is not even believed here that the Idaho authorities have made such an identification. effect that the authorities there Hardey, who answered to a certain degree the description of Morgan, had acted in a suspicious manner upon his arrival at Nampa, it was said.

Husband Is Missing.

Chief of Police Barlow received a letter from Mrs. Charles Coleman Barnes of 508 Figuerou street, Los Angeles, Cal., Wednesday afternoon, asking the chief to endeavor to locate her busband, Charles Coleman Barnes. Barnes has been missing from Bisbee, Ariz., since April 19, 1909, but has since been seen in this cits. He is described as five feet ten inches, very thin, with dark hair mixed with gray, dark blue eyes, always pale and about 50 years of age. He is said to have a xousin in the restaurant business at Blugham. Mrs. Coleman states that she is crippled with rheumatism and can hardly support her small boy, and is therefore eager to hear from her husband.

First Run.

Fire station No. 6 had its first run Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock since the establishment of the station. The alarm came from Second South and Seventeenth West streets, when a lamp under an incubator exploded. The loss was estimated at $225, and includes about $75 worth of young chickens. The prompt arrival of the department and efficient work extinguished the flames before they reached the barn. Utah sheep shearers are at work, and according to reports from different sections of the state the wool crop this year will be equal to that of, last season. The output in 1909 was 11,000,000 pounds. Shearing began in earnest Monday morning and will continue until practically 1,000,000 sheep have been shorn. A number of new shearing correis have been built this year and these will facilitate the work of wool gathering.

The section of the city's pure food ordinance relating to the sale of food said to be unsafe and unwholesome for ordinance relating to the safe of human consumption had a very close call from being declared illegal by Judge Lewis of the district court Wednesday, when he raised the point that the city, through its food commissioner and inspectors, had no right to declare food unwholesome and unsafe for human beings in the absence of some fixed standard by which to determine that point. The matter came up during the closing of the trial of the appeal case of Salt Lake City against Tom Politz.

Politz was charged by City Food and Dairy Commissioner Walter J. Frazier with selling nuts that were wormy and unfit for human consumption. He was found guilty in the police court and was fined $50, after which he appealed to the district will leave this city about May 1, or a little later.

SUPERINTENDENT HAWK IS GIVEN PROMOTION

The new position to which Mr. Hawk has been assigned is one of the most important in the Pestal Telegraph company's system. He will have charge of a large number of offices in Illinois and Indiana, including practically all the cities not classed as metropolises. The promotion gives Mr. Hawk rank with the highest class of officials in the telegraph service.

cities not classed as metropolises. The promotion gives Mr. Hawk rank with the highest class of officials in the telegraph service.

Mr. Hawk came to Salt Lake about five years ago, from Montana. At that time the Postal was just entering the Salt Lake field. From a small beginning, under the direction of Superintendent Hawk, the business developed and increased until today the company's Salt Lake office is one of the important ones of the west. The plant in the Boston building is the best that expenditure of money and ingenuity of electrical engineers can make it.

Prior to his advent in Salt Lake, Mr. Hawk was engaged in the telegraph business in Montana, beginning his service there in 1887. His first place was with the old Rocky Mountain Telegraph company at Fort Benton. The Rocky Mountain was an old military line until it was acquired jointly by Marcus Daly and W. A. Clark, perhaps the only enterprise in which these two millionaires were jointly interested since their disagreement many years ago. Mr. Hawk was made manager of the Helena office, and later he leased the line from Messrabaly and Clark, lie was successful in his negotiations with the Postal company, and the Rocky Mountain was turned ever to that company. Upon the completion of the connecting link between Salt Lake and Montana, Mr. Hawk was made superintendent of the district.

The cighth district now will be dissolved, Salt Lake's end being handled from Denver, and the Montana end being attached to the superintendency of the Seattle division.

The Postal, under Mr. Hawk's supervision, is just beginning the building of a medern telegraph line from Salt Lake to Wells, Nev. This line will consist of three copper wires, weighing 43 pounds and Denver, giving a total of four first-class telegraph wires between Salt Lake and Denver, will be string between Salt Lake and Denver, will be strong between Salt Lake and Denver, will be strong between these two points, the whole forming a transcentinental route of immense possibilities.

OPINIONS DIFFER REGARDING FROST

Consensus Is, However, That Buys $2,400,000 I Damage to Fruit Crop Is Not Great.

CHERRIES AND APRICOTS ARE GREATEST SUFFERERS

Warmer Weather Is Now Promised and No More Trouble Expected.

Reports regarding the damage done to be cherry and apricot crops of the northrn Utah counties by the gold weather and frost of Monday and Tuesday are ex tremely conflicting and in all probability the actual extent of the loss will not be known for some weeks.

Reports received at the local weather ureau from different towns throughout the state Wednesday indicate that the loss will be extremely light. Fruit mon from the same districts have declared that practically two-thirds of the cherry crop has been lost and the apricot trees seriously affected. The cherry crop is the most important as the apricots are a minor issue comparatively speaking.

This fact however, seems to be generally accepted. The apple and peach trees were uninjured by the cold weather, because the buds were not sufficiently matured to suffer from the frost.

Assitant Section Director of the Weather Bureau J. After made an extensive inquiry and used the long distance telephone for nearly an hour. He reported that the weather correspondents in the different tewns included in the frost belt stated that the damage done to the cherries and apricots was light.

Nicholas Byhower city park superintendent, took an entirely different view, he said that in Mill creek, Holliday and other places, two-thirds of the cherry trees had been damaged and that apricot trees had been damaged and that apricot trees had seen damaged and that apricot tr oss will be extremely light. Wind a Good Thing.

Wind a Good Thing.

"The wind was a good thing." said Mr. Byhower, Wednesday night. "It kept the high barometric pressure from settling and thus prevented a more intense cold spell. But in another way the wind was a bad factor because it was so high that it made smudging practically impossible. And the cold snap came so unexpectedly that many of the fruit growers were unprepared to protect their trees.

Here is a peculiar fact. The official temperature recording machine on the top of the Boston block recorded a minimum temperature of 32 degrees, which is one degree above freezing, but in the southeastern part of this city and in the southeastern part of the valley, still water that had been left exposed was covered with a thin ceating of ice Wednesday morning. The cherry and apricots were practically the only sufferers because of the fact that these trees blossom much earlier than apples and peaches and were in many sections in full bloom.

Following are the resolutions adopted by the Retail Merchants association upon the murder of George W. Fassell.

Whereas. The murder of George W. Fassell, our beloved secretary, and the circumstances attending it—at an early hour, in his place of business, and without resistance, has appalled the city of Salt Lake and given food for serious thought to every business man in the city, the occasion calls for an expression of the opinion of this body, a protest against the crime and the insistent but respectful demand that the crime shall be dealt with swiftly, and some guarantee made in that action of the courts to which we look with confidence, that we may follow our business with some sense of security. Representing the retail business interest of the city, as taxpayers and clitzens, we feel that we may ask for hearing in this matter, and that some system of patrol in the residence districts, where many of us do business, shall be adopted by the city in our interest and that of the general public, and be it.

Resolved Therefore by the Retail Merchants association of Salt Lake that we express to the city council our request for an extension of police surveillance in a degree sufficient for our protection; that we apepal to the authorities, calmy but earnestly, to proceed with all swiftness to the number of the murderers of G. W. Fassell, so promptly arrested and arraigned, and ask the public to join with us in steady agitation for the punishment of such crimes as this. look with confidence, that we may follow our business with some sense of security.
